Tempting the Player (London Legends Book 3) By Kat Latham

Book three of the London Legends

Libby Hart and Matt Ogden are perfect for each other--as friends. They've known each other for ages. They act as each other's plus-ones. They even share custody of a dog. And if there's always been a little spark between them, so what? It's never been worth jeopardizing their friendship.

Professional rugby player Matt is fighting for a starter position with the London Legends--and that's not the only thing he's fighting. A crippling fear of flying means he's struggling to get his career off the ground. He has no time for a relationship, even if Libby does make him ache. As an airline pilot, Libby's looking for a stay-at-home husband so she can have a family without sacrificing her high-flying career. Matt's certainly not that man.

But just because they don't have a future together doesn't mean they can't have a right now. When Matt asks Libby for help overcoming his fear, they agree to take a vacation from their platonic relationship--whenever they fly together, they can have sex. It's the perfect way to resolve all that built-up tension. As long as they can avoid getting a little too comfortable...

From the Author

Hi, readers! Some books are extremely difficult to write. Some practically fly from my brain onto the screen. Tempting the Player is the second kind. Matt and Libby's story came to me very suddenly when I was on deadline writing Playing It Close, but I couldn't wait to get started. It was another few months before I had time to start writing it, and by then it was almost fully formed in my imagination.

As part of my research, I spoke to a retired airline pilot and a pilot who builds his own planes. He even took me up in his plane and let me take control and practice making turns as we leveled out at 1,500 feet over the Pacific Ocean. I'm very nervous on planes, so it was terrifying!
